

Purified Air improves air quality at Warrington Conservative Club

A contract to supply an environmental control system comprising air conditioning and air purification has recently been undertaken by PURIFIED AIR for the Warrington Conservative Club. Romford-based Purified Air is the Association of Conservative Club's nominated supplier of air purification, ventilation and air conditioning systems.

The Warrington Conservative Club has more than 2,000 members and has been in its present premises since 1974. It is a large club consisting of an upstairs function room, a snooker bar and a lounge bar and is currently undergoing a general refurbishment programme.

The decision to install air conditioning units and air purifiers was taken for a number of reasons not least because, due to the club's popularity, a lot of members are in at any one time. This resulted in it becoming unbearably hot and stuffy as well as there being a consequent smoke problem, particularly in the snooker bar. Also the club has recently had the upstairs function room completely redecorated and refurbished and therefore did not want it to become quickly discoloured by tobacco smoke. Air purifiers from Purified Air not only remove 98% of airborne impurities including tobacco smoke, but also, by keeping the air cleaner reduce redecorating and cleaning costs.

Purified Air is one of the UK's leading air control specialists. On being awarded the contract by the Warrington Conservative Club Purified Air initially carried out a full site survey of the premises to make sure that the correct system was specified in accordance with the environmental requirements.

A combination of six Fujitsu wall-mounted air conditioning units were installed, including one each for behind the bar areas, together with five PA 1000 air purifiers. The PA 1000 is a ceiling mounted unit, available in either a white or brown finish, and is just one of a range of wall or ceiling mounted air purifiers designed to match most décor, manufactured in-house by Purified Air.

The new system has been very well received and a spokesperson for the Warrington Conservative Club has said, "Membership has given 100% approval to the installation now it has been commissioned and everyone is very pleased with the cooler, much more pleasant environment."
